THURSDAY, : NOVEMBER 29, 1877. THE SENATE.

The Republicans in the United States senate die hard. They have so long controlled this body that they would hold it in defiance of public opinion and by fraud. But no amount of fillibustering can keep the Democrats from securing a majority in the senate. The treachery of Patterson and Conover already gives the Democrats a controlling power. The admission of Butler and the two senators from Louisiana would make the senate about equally divided, and there are several States which will soon elect Demo- afford the basis of much political power. crats to the senate. unlikeness to any one else. He is a good school officer and is well prepared to suggest The convention adjourned yesterday morn-ing to visit the Peabody high school. The superintendents and teachers were delighted with the discipline of the school and the ability shown by its teachers. On last night here was a literary treat in the discussion of 'Whose Fault," by Miss Clara Conway, of Memphis. She showed conclusively that i is not the fault of faithful, competent teachers that the cause of education does not progress. Until the people prefer good schoolhouses to fine courthouses and strong jails there can be no great advance in real education. The fair essayist took a cheerful view of the future, and thought the time was coming when the doors of science should fly wide open; when the little child should not be compelled to say to the twinkling star, "How I wonder what you are," but when he can boldly af-firm: "I know exactly what you are." The reading of the essay was preceded by a speech from Judge Freeman, of the supreme court, which was eminently practical in its They cannot afford to condone bribery. > Closing Day. SATURDAY, November 24.—The institute closed to night with an address by the State superintendent, followed by select readings from Miss Conway, of Memphis, and Miss Hanna, of Dresden. Many questions of importance were discussed during the day, among which "School Discipline" received a large share of attention. The views of Miss Conway were particularly good, and showed her to be thoroughly familiar with the ques-tion. METAPHYSICAL LECTURE

On the Nature and Comparative Tendency of Platonic Love and Free Love, by Rev. Adolph Thomas, of the German Evangelieal Protestant parentage. Free lovers think it a moral reg-ulation that deserves unbound freedom. But the truth is, it is a sensual stimulant in a showy mask that requires control and precaunational virtue. This necessity is indicated by nature itself, who means to regulate the extravagant promptings of the Platonic love instinct by the holy edicts of another love, intuition, implying parental responsibility. The serious duties enjoined by the parental state are holier than the divine raptures of the bridal state. Conscientious obedience to the domestic obligations of dutiful love is the most sacred decree of nature revealed in the loving mother. Sentimental indulgence in the Platonic gratification of free-love ought to be sacrificed or subordinated to this supreme umpire in all sexual relations. Who-soever pretends to be true to nature, love and instinct, has to repel the perversive tendencies and specious fallacies of the free-love theory. NEWS IN BRIEF.

The tug Thompson, burned at Erie, Pennsylvania, Monday, sunk before she could be towed to the dock. A royal decree has been published in Spain establishing one system and management of the railways throughout that country. The three men indicted for turring and eathering a woman of doubtful character at Waterford, Pennsylvania, have all been sentenced to the entlary for from one to two years.

The Arapaboe Indians have been removed to their reservation near Fort Casper in Wyoming Territory, where they are abiding peacefully and quietly, but much disappointed at the tardiness of the government in sending supplies. The amount of additional circulation that was issued by the comptroller of the currency during was issued by the comparoner of the currency during November was $3,938,255. Eighty per cent. of this amount in greenbacks will be retired, leaving the amount of greenbacks will be retired, leaving the amount of greenbacks outstanding, $351,340,288; total amount of additional circulation issued since the passage of the act of January 14, 1875, $38,324,440; amount of national banknotes outstanding, $313,295,791.

The commissioner of internal revenue says, n his annual report, that after considerable attento no the question of changing the rate of taxation on spirits and tobacco, he has come to the conclusion that the interests of the government and the manufacturers and dealers will be subserved by allowing the rate of taxation to remain undisturbed, nor would he re omm-nd a change in the law in respect to the tax on fruit brandy. The Paris newspapers are discussing the question whether the army will support MacMahon or the republic in case of a conflict. Manuscript placards insulting and threatening President MacMahon have been posted. A number persons have been arrested for drankenness, raising secilitous cries, and insulting and resisting the police. The right has resolved to take the initiative of bringing about the discussion of the budget. The minister of finance will take this opportunity to reaffirm the ideas of concillation and appeasement which predominated at the formation of the cabinet. Si ould the chamber of deputies, nevertheless, refuse to vote the budget, President MacMahon will draw up a message rendering the seque the judge of the situamessage rendering the senate the judge of the situ-tion, and summoring it to choose between anothe dissolution of the deputies and his resignation.

James G. Cosmeslite, ambassadors of the Samoan government, have arrived in Washington, and will have a conference with the secretary of state. The object of the ambassador is to negotiate a treaty of friendship and commerce, thus securing their recognition as an is dependent nation. The government, under the general law for the protection of the discoverers of the guano Islands, has recognized those who have taken possession of Morant Cays near the coast of Jamaica, and a cargo of guano from that place was recently brought to Baltimore. The deposit is said to be rich and abundant. The British have made a formal claim for the possession of these Cays, alleging a former right by discovery, and this will become a subject of diplomacy between the British and United States governments.

Politicians, who have not yet found this out, had better learn it before they again see the votes of the sovereigns.

The following resolutions, offered by Super ntendent Shropshire, were adopted by a un-mimous vote of the convention:

Below we give a synopsis of the interesting lecture on "Platonic Love and Free Love," delivered Sunday night by Rev. Mr. Thomas, at the German Protestant church on Third street. The lecture was well received by the audience, Mr. Thomas beginning his remarks with the statement that Platonic love, a romantic and mystic sentiment glit tering in a celestial light, seemingly revolts from the gross touch of bodily appetite. Refining the sensual enjoyments and purifying from earthly passions, it may be called a hallowing sympathy or a spiritual regeneration. highly over-estimated by erratic enthusiasts being and life. Even in its most refined form, which is constituted by the passionate mysticism of religious enthusiasts, love apparently is unable to prevent carnal excesses. The history of religious mysticism represents Platonic love, not as a spiritual guide, but as a mysterious invention of amorous passion, through which nature deludes into the burdensome state of
